PROSPECTUS OF THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL. Session Papers.

We again issue our annual prospectus for our papers during the session of the State Legislature. So ry section of the State, we might content ourselves the number: with barely announcing their continuance. In view, however, of the probable interesting matters to be agitated, discussed and disposed of in the coming session, we purpose an allusion to them, that every one may judge of the importance of keeping himself informed. whereof the party shall be first duly convicted. It is not expected that any subject of a party character, strictly, will be before the Legislature; and consequently measures, in which the people of the State are greatly interested, will be mainly to be acted on. Among these will probably be the completion of the arrangement of our State Debt. Indeed, we should not be surprised if this should prove the great measure of the session.
